CENTRE FOR PAINTING HOLIDAYS

Cornwall, the peninsula of southwest England, stretches out into the Atlantic and is a land of history where visitors and artists seek inspiration, tranquillity and the beauty of an unspoilt natural landscape. With its rugged coastline, ever-changing light and varied topography, Cornwall has for long proved a mecca for painters of all standards.

At Caradoc of Tregardock there are crashing breakers, wild flowers, sea birds, the Around Britain Coastal Path and open, varied skies to inspire.

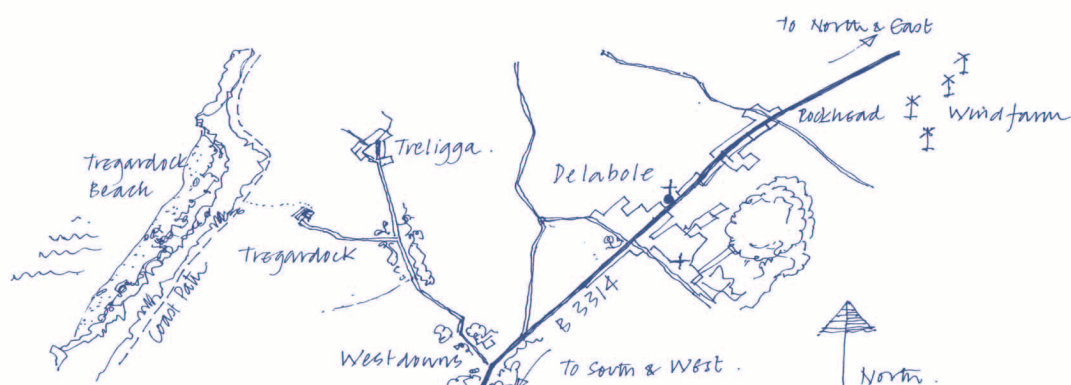

Caradoc of Tregardock is a beautiful conversion of barns on a family farm and provides holiday opportunities of two kinds:-

- Painting Courses for artists with tuition and full accommodation. Meals are provided leaving the artist free to paint and work. Groups may bring their own tutor.
- Holiday Lets for self-catering. Caradoc of Tregardock is available all the year round for one to twelve people. Short breaks out of season are particularly attractive and well priced.

Accommodation at Caradoc includes two well-appointed houses. The main house sleeps 8 in separate apartments on two floors. There are 4 bedrooms with zip-and-link beds and en-suite bathrooms, two spacious living rooms with woodburning stoves, fully fitted kitchen areas and French windows opening onto sea views. The second house sleeps 4, two bedrooms and one bathroom, and has a charming sitting room with woodburning stove and original high beams. A separate 60 foot studio adjoins both houses.

The buildings are set around a grassy courtyard and have west-facing patios designed for watching the sun sets over the sea. Caradoc of Tregardock is easily accessible by road and is close to Port Isaac, the sports centres of Rock and Polzeath and the Daymer Bay family beach. The market town of Wadebridge is 8 miles away and there are many holiday activities within easy reach for non-painting visitors including several fine golf courses, the Tate Gallery at St Ives, many famous Cornish gardens and the cathedral cities of Truro and Exeter.
